

Editor's Note

COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted our life. The way we practice medicine also has been changed, including the increasing use of telemedicine, and technology in medicine. The knowledge has been fast expanding and constantly changing. In this issue, we selected COVID-19 knowledge in several specialties with the hope that it will help readers to comprehend COVID-19 data on various topics. It is also important to mention that what we know today may not be true tomorrow. Thus, continuous medical education has become remarkably significant important for medicine.

Anucha Apisarnthanarak
Editor
Asian Medical Journal and Alternative Medicine