

Editor's Note

In this issue, we have several interesting articles on various aspects of medical disciplines. We also had a special article on climate changes which is a very interesting topic. Please note that Thammasat Medical Journal has officially opened the website for article submission and for reviewers. We believe that this website will help facilitate the review process in the digital era. The editorial team continues to work hard to improve the quality of journals as well as the plan for expand the journal reputation in the international community. We would like to encourage authors to submit a high quality article to our Thammasat Medical Journal.

Anucha Apisarnthanarak, MD

Professor in Infectious Diseases

Editor, Thammasat Medical Journal